

Meet Our Speaker

Dr.Carolynn Thomas Jones is a Professor of Clinical Nursing and the Director of the Master of Clinical Research graduate degree program offered by the Colleges of Nursing and Pharmacy at OSU. She has over 30 years of experience working in clinical research roles, ranging from coordinator to principal investigator (PI). In addition to managing operations for multi-center clinical trials, she has also worked in multi-disciplinary clinical research workforce development in the United States and low-resource countries. Her work on the NIH Fogarty Challenge Grant, "Promoting Enhanced Research Capacity for Global Health" (PERC), which was offered to 150 coordinators in 39 countries, resulted in capacity development at multiple clinical research sites. Dr. Jones holds a DNP in nursing with a concentration in clinical research nurse role delineation and an MSPH in Epidemiology, with a focus on cryptococcal disease surveillance. She is a founding member of the Joint Taskforce for Clinical Research Competence, which has led to the international adoption of clinical research competencies to drive workforce development and curriculum development. As the mPI of the NCATS-sponsored DIAMOND grant, she helped bridge training and connections among the clinical research workforce across CTSA hubs through a web-based portal used for sharing training and adopted by NCATS/NIH. Her faculty practice also includes working with the Mycoses Study Group Education and Research Consortium. At this independent nonprofit organization, she assists with advisory activities for clinical trials and epidemiology studies of invasive fungal diseases, contributing to the development of antifungal drugs and diagnostics. She is the past president of the Consortium of Academic Programs in Clinical Research (CoAPCR), as well as past chair of the Research Committee for the International Association of Clinical Research Nurses, and a Board member of the ACRP. She has led international teams on collaborative initiatives for clinical research workforce development, aligning with the goals of the NIH National Center for Advancing Translational Sciences (NCATS). She has published widely on subjects related to clinical research management and education.
